ONLINE ORIENTATION SESSIONS

The online portion of the orientation has been conveniently made available to you via your CANVAS and must be completed by Monday, June 25, 2018. To access your blackboard please visit <https://canvas.wayne.edu/>

Once you have logged into CANVAS, click on the “Advanced Standing Class of 2019” organization tab. Once logged in to Canvas and this course, you will be on the homepage with a short introduction from your advisor. On the left hand side, click the Modules button. In preparation for the in-person orientation, please view and complete the following required online modules:

The required orientation modules include:

- Orientation to Using Canvas
- Writing Seminar: Vanessa Gualtieri, Writing Tutor
- Orientation to Libraries: Monique Oldfield, Librarian II
- Field Education: Takisha LaShore, Assistant to the Director of Field Education
- Professional Development: Joy Ernst, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs

These sessions also include “reviews” that must be completed prior to the orientation in person on June 25, 2018. Presenters will be available during that orientation to answer any further questions regarding the content covered. Announcements will be sent from CANVAS and will remain online to be revisited at your leisure. I recommend that if you are not familiar with how to navigate Canvas, please visit the Orientation to Using Canvas Module first.

Students are required to read the information within the modules and complete the “reviews”.
Completing the reviews serves as confirmation of fulfilling the online portion of the orientation.
