Ph.D. Program

Featuring multiple options to meet individual interests and career goals:

Clinical Scholarship Track

This track prepares graduates for important careers in clinical social work teaching, scholarship, and research, as well as for leadership positions in the greater clinical social work community.

This track is not a separate program, nor is it a DSW.

It is part of the existing doctoral program.

Dual-title in

Social Work and Gerontology

This program addresses the critical need for social work faculty and researchers trained in geriatrics who can promote evidence-based practices and serve as role models for future generations of social workers specializing in the field.

Dual-title in

Social Work and Infant Mental Health

This program is designed to meet the needs of doctoral students whose goal is to gain a thorough understanding of both research and clinical work with infants and families.
