NEUROSCIENCE AND SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE
(5.0 CE Hours)

This workshop will focus on selected areas of neuroscience research, those especially relevant to social work practice. Attachment theory pre- and post-neuroscience will be addressed. In the neurodevelopmental view of trauma segment, we will focus on child abuse/neglect and how the structure and function of the brain is impacted. An update on post traumatic stress disorder will discuss the most recent understanding of this disorder, including treatment implications. A section on the neurobiology of psychotherapy will present recent research findings about how the mind and brain change as a result of the psychotherapeutic process and how these findings can influence clinical social work practice. Neurobiology as it relates to psychotropic medications and drugs of abuse are also topics that will be presented. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Speaker: Rosemary L. Farmer, PhD, LCSW is an Associate Professor at the School of Social Work, Virginia Commonwealth University, where she teaches graduate courses in clinical practice, human behavior and the social environment (HBSE), and psychopharmacology for social workers. She has been a clinical social work practitioner for over 30 years, with experience in state and federal psychiatric facilities, family service agencies, outpatient mental health clinics and private practice. Her most recent publication is the book, Neuroscience and Social Work Practice: The Missing Link.

FRIDAY, APRIL 16, 2010 – WSU MAIN CAMPUS

CONFLICT RESOLUTION STRATEGIES FOR SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

This workshop will explore a number of conflict resolution concepts, strategies, theories, and processes. Social psychology, communication and social work literature will be presented and used as a framework to analyze conflicts and to initiate appropriate interventions to a conflictual situation in a range of social work practice settings. Participants will engage in a number of exercises to highlight concepts and strategies to resolve conflicts. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructor: Pauline Everette, PhD, MSW teaches Human Behavior courses and dispute resolution courses at the School. She has specialized training in mediation and dispute resolution. She has a private psychotherapy practice and consults with numerous community organizations on a range of mental health issues.

PSYCHOTHERAPY WITH OLDER ADULTS – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

Social work practice with older adults requires a sound understanding of the developmental trajectory of individuals in this life stage and familiarity and skill with the most effective treatment approaches. This workshop will provide an overview of this last stage of development (highlighting the writings of Erickson) and review the CBT, Psychodynamic and IPT models of treatment. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructor: Suzanne Rodgers, LMSW has substantial experience in work with older adults, along with 20 years of experience providing social work services to children, adults and families. She has completed advanced training in psychoanalytic psychotherapy at the Michigan Psychoanalytic Institute.

CLINICAL UPDATES: PERSPECTIVES IN SUBSTANCE USE AND ABUSE WITH COUPLES, FAMILIES AND YOUTH – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

This workshop will focus on current trends and approaches in substance use and abuse with couples, families and youth. The impact of substance use/abuse on the couple system will be examined and best practices in the couple treatment will be presented. An examination of the role the family plays in the addiction and recovery process will be explored and problems with limited family involvement will be presented. An overview of youth use/abuse of alcohol, marijuana and other drugs will be discussed and recent research on brain studies, decreasing youth use and interventions that work with youth will be highlighted. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructors:

Cynthia Sweier, MSW, LMSW teaches Practice and Human Behavior courses at the School. She has extensive practice experience in a range of social work settings and currently maintains a private psychotherapy practice, working with adults, couples and families. She has significant expertise in the assessment of substance use/abuse.

Dennis Muzzi, LMSW, CAC-1 has practiced family-based social work for more than 25 years. He trained as a family therapist and specializes in the treatment of child abuse and neglect, domestic violence, substance abuse and offender populations. He teaches Family Systems courses at the School. He also works with the Health Professional Recovery Program at Eastwood Clinic and provides divorce mediation.

Charlene McGunn, PhD, MSW teaches Practice courses at the School and serves as the Executive Director for the Chippewa Valley Coalition for Youth and Families. She has extensive social work experience in school settings, family agencies and private practice, working with child, adolescent and adult populations.

DEMENTIA DISORDERS: WHAT EVERY SOCIAL WORKER SHOULD KNOW – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

Social workers increasingly encounter dementia disorders in their practice. This workshop will examine Alzheimer’s disease and the other major dementia disorders in terms of risk factors, etiology, symptomatology, differential diagnosis per DSM-IV criteria, course of illness and social dimensions. The impact on the person diagnosed and on their family members will be explored, including the expanded roles assumed by family caregivers, related stressors and the elements of effective caregiving. Strategies to assist caregivers with communication challenges, distressing behaviors and community resource needs will be addressed. This workshop will benefit social workers who assist persons with dementia and their caregivers in a wide range of inpatient and community-based settings. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructor: Peter Ostrow, LMSW, ACSW has 35 years of experience in professional social work practice, including 24 years primarily working with older adults and their families. He has advanced training in the area of dementia and in family systems therapy. In 2009, he was voted the Geriatric Social Worker of the Year by the Geriatric Social Workers of Southeast Michigan.

ADDRESSING WORKPLACE DISCRIMINATION AND HARASSMENT – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

Many people are at a loss when faced with questions of employment discrimination and rights violations. Employment discrimination laws cover the rights and obligations of employers and employees in the workplace. Social workers should be informed on these issues to better serve their clients who may face workplace discrimination and/or harassment. Participants will learn about the basic protections and benefits to which people are entitled under federal and/or state employment discrimination laws. In addition, this workshop will focus on the steps that can be taken at the worksite level to effectively address rights violations and improve employer compliance. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructors:

Gayle Hamilton, JD is a labor educator at Wayne State University and a labor lawyer with extensive experience in the areas of discrimination, harassment and employment rights. She has practiced in the private sector, with human service organizations and with unions during her career, and is often consulted as an expert on diversity initiatives in Metro Detroit.

David Dobbie, PhD, MSW is a labor educator and organizer at Wayne State University. He has been a youth worker and community organizer, and has worked with unions. He consults with nonprofits and labor unions across the country as a field organizer for Building Partnerships USA, providing technical assistance on the development of community leadership education programs.

INTEGRATIVE COUPLE THERAPY – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

This workshop will provide an integrative approach to assessing and treating relational problems couples present in therapy. Attendees will be introduced to a systematic method for evaluating the type of intervention that may be the most clinically useful at various stages of couple therapy and interventions that are aimed at differing levels of conflict and dysfunction. The workshop will present therapy techniques that are targeted at altering the behavioral, affective and unconscious/intrapsychic dynamics that contribute to problematic couple relationships. Appropriate for intermediate and advanced social work practitioners.

Instructor: David Castine, LMSW, LMFT teaches Family Therapy at the School. He has 30 years of clinical social work experience in inpatient and outpatient mental health settings, and has worked with children, adults, families and couples. David is an approved AAMFT supervisor.

ETHICAL AND LEGAL ISSUES IN SOCIAL WORK AND SOCIAL WORK SUPERVISION (5.0 CE Hours) AND THE BASICS OF PAIN MANAGEMENT: WHAT EVERY PRACTITIONER SHOULD KNOW (1.0 CE Hour) – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.

ETHICS – 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.: This workshop provides participants with a broad overview of legal and ethical issues important to social work practice and the provision of social work supervision. The potential risks and liabilities inherent in practice, both ethical and legal, will be addressed along with recommendations to minimize risks. Ethical and legal issues related to professional boundaries, confidentiality and competence will be covered. Participants will become acquainted with the sections of the NASW Code of Ethics and the Social Work Licensure Law (P.A. 61 of 2004) that affect social work supervision. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructor: Addie Williams, MSW, JD is the CEO of Spaulding for Children. She has substantial experience in social work administration and expertise in the area of child welfare. She also maintains a law practice and serves as a consultant attorney to area agencies regarding foster care and adoption issues. She teaches Law and Social Work at the School.

PAIN – 3:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m.: This workshop will review the concept of chronic pain and its impact on the individual. Methods of conceptualizing and rating pain will be reviewed and treatment strategies and challenges will be examined. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructor: Kathleen Ransome, LMSW, ACSW, LMFT, ACT is a skilled clinician with an extensive background in providing individual and group psychotherapy. She has a special interest in CBT and in the treatment of women, mood disorders, pain management and co-existing medical conditions. Currently, she serves as program coordinator for Behavioral Health at Henry Ford Health System.
CLINICAL SUPERVISION IN SOCIAL WORK: KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS IN CHALLENGING TIMES – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

Clinical supervision requires unique skills and knowledge beyond treatment expertise. Skills include competence evaluation, responsible use of authority, goal contracting and mentoring. Utilization of constructive feedback, parallel process and the appropriate use of self are also needed. Supervisors are expected to provide support, expertise in practice knowledge and intervention and help in the development of professional boundaries. This workshop will include discussion of the role, functions and methods of social work supervision, and provide opportunities to apply these concepts to one’s own setting. Other essential competencies needed to effectively supervise in today’s resource-reduced, human service and behavioral health environment will also be included. Appropriate for intermediate and advanced social work practitioners.

Instructor: Dennis Muzzi, LMSW, CAC-1 (See Clinical Updates: Perspectives in Substance Use and Abuse with Couples, Families and Youth for instructor bio.)

SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 2010 – WSU OAKLAND CENTER

USING THE DSM-IV-TR IN CLINICAL PRACTICE – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

This workshop, designed for practitioners with limited knowledge of the DSM, will provide participants the needed knowledge and skills to use the DSM in an effective and ethical manner. The five Axes will be reviewed and the differences between Axis I and II will be examined. Case material will be presented and participants will have the opportunity to use the DSM with case material to develop diagnoses on a range of mental health conditions. Appropriate for those who have limited experience with the DSM.

Instructor: Peggy O’Kane Brunhofer, PhD, LMSW has extensive experience as a social work practitioner in health and mental health settings and as a social work educator. She currently functions as the Director of Continuing Education at the School.

EFFECTIVE MODELS OF CLINICAL SUPERVISION – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

This workshop will present a number of current models of clinical supervision for social work. It will include a myriad of hands-on interactive exercises and other elements, including a self-scoring behavioral inventory as well as an examination of multicultural differences in supervision. Assess your core competencies and create a personal plan for further professional development as a supervisor. Learn about applying attachment theory to supervisory practice, along with other recent breakthroughs in the field. This workshop is intended for those interested in clinical supervision and is appropriate for intermediate to advanced practitioners.

Instructor: Anne Brantley Segall, LMSW has extensive experience as a social work practitioner in health and mental health settings. She has provided consultation on clinical practice to a number of social work agencies in the metropolitan Detroit area. She sits on the boards of state and national social work associations and is involved in developing recommendations for social work supervision for the ASWB.

SPIRITUALITY AND CLINICAL SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

Spirituality and religion can be tremendous sources of support in times of crisis. Until recently, many social workers did not view religion and spirituality as topics pertinent to client assessment in secular social work practice. This workshop will provide the basics of a spiritual assessment in the psychosocial assessment process, increase one’s awareness of spiritual diversity, and discuss the essentials of a spiritually-sensitive helping relationship. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructor: Pauline Everette, PhD, LMSW is a member of the International Association for Social Work and Spirituality and has presented at their conferences. She has taught graduate and undergraduate courses in Human Behavior at the School.

WORKPLACE VIOLENCE: DE-ESCALATION TECHNIQUES AND ANGER MANAGEMENT – 9:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (6.0 CE Hours)

According to the Department of Justice’s National Crime Victimization Survey, ‘threats of violence in the American workplace number almost 2 million a year…..and mental health professionals place 6th in a ranking of 15 at-risk workers.’ There are considerations and priorities in keeping safe and secure the agency staffs and the diverse clients that are served. This workshop will help identify and define the continuum of workplace violence, examine strengths that characterize a “safe and secure workplace” and explore evidenced-based interventions in response to workplace violence. Appropriate for all levels of social work practice.

Instructor: Arveta Grady-Fletcher, MSW, LMSW, LMFT has more than 30 years of experience as a social work practitioner. She has worked in mental health and school settings, and has taught Practice and Human Behavior courses at the School. Ms. Grady-Fletcher specializes in the area of social work intervention with at-risk youth and their families and in the training of de-escalation and anger management techniques with agency staff and professional audiences.
